YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 13th.

Paul Wick, a prominent banker of this place and largely interested in iron industries hereabouts, died this morning.

—We call attention to the communication in this paper to-day from Mr. W. B. Page with the hope that his suggestions regarding the importance of good roads will be taken up and adopted as the next patriotic and public enterprise of this people. THE TELEGRAPH has for years urged the importance of building better roads and the writer has not changed his mind in that regard. Indeed we believe that it is the intention of our people to go ahead with the road building enterprise and push it through as was planned some time since. The building of roads, however, is not the work of a day nor a year but requires time. The enterprise to which Mr. Page refers was one that could not be postponed. It was believed to be an affair of "Now-or-never;" a strike-the-iron while it is hot sort of an enterprise. Now let us have the road business go on.

—The great danger into which many thoughtless people rush by taking shelter under a tree during the approach of a thunder storm is graphically shown by an account in Nature of the ruin wrought last month by lightning in England. An old English poplar was shivered to pieces by the electric fluid. One solid piece, weighing more than five pounds, was picked up one hundred and twenty-six yards away from the tree and other small pieces seventy yards in an opposite direction, while the debris of the trunk, branches and bark was scattered over two acres of land. Some idea of the enormous force applied may be gathered from the fact that small fragments of the tree were driven sixty yards right in the teeth of the wind.

Every summer many people perish from stupidly sheltering during thunder storms under trees exposed to just such terrific ruin. The taller the tree the more likely it is to be struck. Oaks are most frequently scathed by lightning. But when the electric cloud is approaching all trees should be carefully avoided.

Two men were killed on an island in Rock river last year who took shelter under a tree. A tall tree is however quite useful and serves well as a lightning rod when standing at a little distance from the house.

Dixon, Ill., June 12, 1890.

EDITOR EVENING TELEGRAPH:

Some weeks ago there was a verbal agreement between the subscriber hereto and several gentlemen who are noted for the interest they take in the welfare of the City of Dixon, as well as the liberality they display when called upon to contribute money to any proposition that promises to build up and increase the general wealth of the City, that a subscription paper should be drawn and presented to our business men, asking contributions to be used to purchase a stone crusher and roller, whereby our Road Commissioners might be enabled to expend the taxes levied for road purposes to better advantage and more economically than breaking stone by hand, and inaugurate a system of building permanent roads, this season.

I am informed these gentlemen went so far as to draw up the subscription paper, at the same time making a list of citizens who have always responded to calls of this kind. So far, the verbal agreement before mentioned has been carried out to the letter. At this stage of the proceedings it became known that by raising three or four times the amount of money required for a crusher, &c., it might be possible to secure an enlargement to an industry already established here; and to attain this great benefit (great only in the amount of money it required) the proposition to buy road machinery was "side tracked," because it was argued by one or two, that the raising of the necessary funds for road purposes, by subscription, the committee soliciting for the other proposition would be met with the argument that as money had been subscribed for road purposes it was not fair to expect a second subscription for another purpose so soon. Consequently, a proposition that, when completed, would have benefited the City more than any one thing that could be adopted, because it benefits the farmers, and farmers are the making of any city situated as the City of Dixon is, was put aside for the purpose of obtaining a lesser benefit. Would it not be well for some of our citizens, (merchants and others) who are more interested in the success of the farmer, who is liable to spend the profit accruing from his business with them, than the manufacturer, who is not liable to do anything of the kind, to again take up this question of securing road machinery, now that the other magnificent enterprise has been secured beyond a reasonable doubt, and see if the constructing of permanent roads cannot be yet commenced this season.

CENSUS TROUBLES.

Complaint from the State of Senator Vance.

BAD ADVICE GIVEN TO CITIZENS.

A Circular That Calls for Open Resistance to the Enumerators—Porter Appeals to Vance and Ewart to Give Their Constituents a Talking to—The President Again Puts the Breaks on Public Building Expenses—Mills Feels Hurt—Work in Congress.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 12.—Superintendent Porter received information yesterday from the census supervisor in the district where Asheville, N. C., is located, that the people there are evading the enumerators, informing them through servants when they call at houses that there is no one who can give them the information. Mr. Porter has written to Senator Vance and Representative Ewart, asking them to use their influence with the people of Asheville, so that the census work will not be interfered with.

An Inflammatory Circular.

Some days ago Mr. Porter received copies of a printed circular which has been distributed in Asheville, N. C. It was headed: "Citizens, Protect the Privacy of Your Homes." The circular then asks whether the citizens of this country are living under a despotism, and in answer states that "a stranger to your family, under pay and by order of the impertinent and insulting authorities at Washington, will present himself at your house and ask questions that would cause any modest woman to blush with shame and indignation and every man to feel that his home and family had been put to unaccounted insult and humiliation." The citizens are then advised to refuse to answer the census questions.

Porter's Letter to Vance. In his letter to Senator Vance Mr. Porter says:

I cannot conceive of any reason whatever for the people of Asheville taking such a course in relation to the census. You will readily see yourself that the result of such action will greatly injure that growing town, and place it at a disadvantage before the people of the state and country. I beg of you to take such steps as a man of your representative capacity and influence with the people of North Carolina may be able to induce to stop this matter, and I would be glad if you could have published in some local newspaper a request that the people of Asheville will aid the census office in such a way that the city may be able to take its place among the cities of the new south.

BUSINESS IN CONGRESS.

The House Declines to Accept the Anti-Trust Bill as Reported.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—A resolution declaring E. K. Valentine sergeant-at-arms of the senate was introduced in that body yesterday, and went over. The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was reported, with the total amount increased $313,470. The bill establishing new harbor lines for Portage lake, Mich., was passed. The dependent pensions bill was ordered printed. Then the silver bill came up, and Ewart, while advocating bimetalism, opposed the bills now under discussion, as the United States could not succeed alone in bringing gold and silver to a parity. Vance and Morgan advocated free silver, and the senate adjourned with Morgan's speech uncompleted.

In the house Mills resigned his place on the committee on rules, and McMillan of Tennessee was appointed in his stead. The conference report on the anti-trust bill was rejected, and the house amendments stricken from the bill, leaving it the same as that passed by the senate. The conference report on the military academy appropriation bill was agreed to, and the urgent deficiency bill—$3,708,000 for pensions and $8,075,000 for the census bureau—was passed. The resolution asking the treasury for the facts about the Cunard company's refusal to take back to Europe rejected immigrants was adopted. The disagreement on the general pensions bill was insisted upon. In committee of the whole the agricultural appropriation bill was considered, agreed to, reported to the house and then passed. Recess was taken to 8 p. m., and at that hour bills from the commerce committee were considered, but Finley of Kentucky prevented, by objections, nearly every bill from passing. The house adjourned at 9:15.

THE PRESIDENTIAL VETO.

It Comes Down with a Bull Thud on a Public Building Bill.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—The president has returned to the house without his approval a bill appropriating $40,000 for a public building at Tuscaloosa, Ala. In his message accompanying the bill, the president says:

Judging by its postal revenues and by the officers employed in the office, the postoffice at Tuscaloosa is not an important one. It has only one clerk at a salary of $450 a year and no carriers. The report of the postmaster general shows that the gross receipts for the year 1898 were $6,379, and the net revenue less than $4,000. The annual receipts have only increased by $3,000 in ten years. The rent now paid for a building having 2,300 square feet floor space is $275.

An Odious Generalization.

The general proposition to erect public buildings at this scale of expense in cities of the size of Tuscaloosa would not, I am sure, receive the sanction of congress. It would involve an expenditure for buildings of ten times the present net revenues of such offices, and in the case under consideration would involve an increased cost for fuel, lights and care greater than the rent now paid for the use of a room, ample in size.

Question of Dollars and Cents.

I would not insist that it must always be shown that a proposed public building must yield an interest on the investment, but in the present uncertain state of public revenues and expenditures resulting from pending and probable legislation there is, in my opinion, an absolute necessity that expenditures for public buildings should be limited to cases where the public needs are very evident and very imperative. It is clear that this is not such a case.

An Appeal for Portage Lake Canal.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—Ex-Senator Congor, of Michigan, appeared before the senate committee on commerce yesterday and made an argument in favor of the purchase of the Portage Lake canal.

SECRETARY RUSK'S REMARK.

It is Taken as Indicating That the President Wants a Second Term.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—There is a good deal of comment in political circles over a published interview with Secretary of Agriculture Rusk, who was in New York last week, and in which he was made to say that in his opinion "President Harrison will not only be re-nominated, but re-elected. There is no doubt that he is the choice of the people, for he has given a splendid administration and made no mistakes."

Its Supposed Significance.

Although it has been understood all along that the president discourages all talk having reference to the next election, this utterance, from one of his confidential advisors, and a cautious speaker to boot, is taken as indicating that those closest to the president have already adopted his re-nomination as a part of their programme. Were this not so, it is said, Gen. Rusk would not have ventured to make the suggestion that has occasioned so much comment and which is regarded as semi-authoritative.

Must Obtain Their Names.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—The census supervisor for the Fifth Pennsylvania district writes Superintendent Porter that the Hungarians there refuse to answer the questions or give their names, and suggests that they be taken by the numbers by which they are known in the coal regions. Porter, in reply, writes that the number system must not be officially recognized, because it is wholly obnoxious, and that the names must be obtained.

Why Mills Is Offended.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—The declaration of Mills to serve on the committee on rules was the cause of considerable comment about the Capitol yesterday. Mills declined to make a statement concerning his action, but the report is that he is offended that Speaker Reed did not give him Randall's place on the committee, a position he considered himself entitled to, as leader on the Democratic side.

By the Name Will They Conquer.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—Seven women, at the suggestion of Miss Anthony, have incorporated themselves into a new organization in this city under the name of the "Winodanahis," with a capital stock of $25,000 in 25 shares. The object of the "Winodanahis" is the education of women in physical science, in art, literature and physical culture.

For Mississippi Improvement.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—The senate commerce committee has agreed upon the appropriation for the Mississippi river in the river and harbor bill. The paragraph agreed upon appropriates $3,500,000 to be expended under the direction of the Mississippi river commission. No individual improvements are specified, as they are in the house bill.

The White House Family.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 13.—It is announced that Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Dimmick, and the children of the White House will leave Washington City next Tuesday for Cape May, and remain there during the summer. The president will probably make them weekly visits until the adjournment of congress.

INHALED OXIDIZED MERCURY.

Peculiar and Fatal Accident to a New York Woman.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Mrs. Addie S. Hill died yesterday from mercurial poisoning due to a singular accident. Mrs. Hill had suffered from an affection of the lungs, for the relief of which she inhaled hot air, using a patented apparatus. On Monday, as usual, she lighted the alcohol lamp to heat the air, and began to inhale. She had drawn but a few breaths when she felt a burning sensation in her throat and chest. Dr. Rufus P. Lincoln was summoned and found her suffering great pain and vomiting incessantly.

The Thermometer Had Broken.

He administered remedies, but could do little more than lessen the pain. Examination of the hot-air apparatus showed that the bulb of the thermometer near the mouthpiece had broken, and that the mercury it contained had run into the apparatus. There it was vaporized and oxidized, and oxide of mercury was the powerful poison which Mrs. Hill had inhaled.

TAKING CENSUS IN FLORIDA.

It Gets Mixed Up with a Personal Quarrel with Fatal Consequences.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 13.—A Quincy special says: News reached here late last night of the murder of Jesse Inman by William C. Wilson, at the home of the former in the country, sixteen miles west from town. The men were neighbors, and there had been bad blood between them for some time. Wilson is a census enumerator. Yesterday he called at Inman's house officially to get statistics.

The Old Cow Counts Out.

In the course of the conversation the old troubles came up, when Wilson accused Inman of stealing a hog from him. Inman and his brother thereupon attacked Wilson, one with a knife and the other with a club. As soon as Wilson was struck he drew his knife and rushed at Inman, slashing his neck almost from ear to ear. Inman died instantly. Wilson fled and has not been captured. All concerned are respectable white farmers.

Geo. Wm. Curtis Addresses Vassar Girls.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 13.—George William Curtis was the orator of the day at Vassar college yesterday, when the exercises on the anniversary of the founding of the college twenty-five years ago were held. The 1,500 students, alumnae and guests listened to him with great interest. President Taylor and Historian Lossing also spoke.

Building Paralyzed at Denver.

DENVER, Colo., June 13.—One thousand two hundred carpenters quit work yesterday to sustain the 400 machine wood-workers and bench mill men, who have been out a month demanding nine hours with ten hours' pay. All building operations are suspended at present. The hod-carriers and tinners are expected to join the strikers.

Secretary Rusk at Home.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 13.—Secretary J. M. Rusk, of the agricultural department, passed through Milwaukee for a visit to his home in Vernon county Wednesday evening. The ex-governor expressed the belief that Governor Hoard will be re-nominated and elected, but declined to talk further upon state politics.

The Carewitch as a Globe Trotter.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 13.—The carewitch will start on a tour of the world on Aug. 1. He will return by way of America.

Chicago, Burlington and Quincy engine men at Galesburg, Ill., are greatly aroused at the suspension of twelve engineers, and talk of organizing a society for protection.

ON SHORT RATIONS.

An Explanation of the Present Cheyenne Troubles.

HUNGER DRIVES THEM DESPERATE.

And the Settlers' Cattle Suffer in Consequence—A Misleading Report Results in the Government Reducing the Food Supply—What an Army Officer Says of the Situation—An Interview with Col. Swaine at Fort Keogh—Arms for the Settlers.

MILES CITY, Mont., June 13.—The outbreak of Cheyennes on the Rosebud which has caused five companies of United States troops to take the field at a cost of thousands of dollars, and which may also cost the state of Montana a nice sum before the trouble is over, is another case of starving Indians driven to crime. In 1873 the Cheyennes, after fighting the troops in several campaigns with courage rarely excelled by the American savage, surrendered, and as prisoners of war were put upon their present reservations. Later this vast band was joined by more of the tribe from Indian territory.

Reduced the Indians' Rations.

At that time the country was unsettled, there was plenty of game and the military looked out for them, so that the Indian fared well. The place where Gen. Miles put them was afterward set aside for their use by the interior department, which took charge of them. It is the garden spot of Montana, and settlers soon commenced to come in. To-day the entire reservation is surrounded with ranches. Previous to Agent Upshaw's coming a man named Stevens, who was connected with the agency, reported to the interior department that the Cheyennes were rapidly becoming self-supporting. In consequence of this report the tribe's rations were reduced one-half, with the result that many died during the winter of 1888 from starvation, and the facts were reported to the department.

With the Inevitable Result.

The game having all been driven out of the country, and there being thousands of head of cattle roaming just out of the reservation, the Cheyennes took what was not given them. In other words, they have been killing and living on the ranchmen's cattle. From killing it for use they rapidly advanced to the stage where they killed it out of pure Indian cussedness, actuated no doubt by the feeling that in this way they could "get even" with the whites who cut their rations down. Lieut. Robertson, of the First cavalry, who is stationed at the agency, says it is enough to touch the hardest-hearted to go through the Cheyennes' camps and witness the hunger of the reds.

Daily Food Supply of the Reds.

Not only have they had but half rations, but the government has not given them the means of getting a livelihood from farms of their own. For eleven years many of them have been separated from their husbands, wives, and children, the latter being confined on a reservation 300 miles away. For many years the daily food supply of the Cheyennes has been: Beef, including bone, three-fourths of a pound; flour, four pounds; coffee, three and one-half ounces; sugar, one-half ounce; salt, three-tenths of an ounce. These rations are issued once every two weeks. At the end of the first week Lieut. Robertson says these rations are all gone and the Indians live on the cattle of settlers.

Another Grievance of Mr. Lo.

Some time ago it was determined to organize a company of 100 Cheyenne scouts. About sixty enlisted, and among the applicants was Two Moons, a chief, who was refused. He became dissatisfied for some reason, and tried to persuade those who had enlisted to desert, but did not succeed. Then followed the arrest of five Indians for the murder of Ferguson. It is not thought all these Indians are guilty, and their arrest has filled the other Indians with fear, so that both whites and reds are suspicious. One word or thoughtless move on the part of either will act as a match to a powder wagon.

Arrival of Arms for Settlers.

Intense alarm exists throughout this region, and at any moment reports may come in of the breaking out of hostilities. The danger is not at the agency, where troops are, but between this fort and the agency, where Indians are roaming, and where settlers are scattered. Col. C. D. Curtis, aide-de-camp to Gov. Toole, has arrived with arms and ammunition. Immediately after his arrival he had a consultation with Col. Swaine, commander of Fort Keogh.

Col. Bryan States Some Facts.

With Col. Curtis went Col. Bryan, one of the settlers who have deserted their ranches. He explained the situation, saying that a number of settlers, with their families, had left their homes owing to the threatened outbreak of the Cheyennes; that the Indians were burning signal fires on the hills, and supposed friendly Indians had warned the settlers to leave the country, as war would soon be inaugurated; that Indians who had adopted civilized garb had thrown it off, and were out in full Indian rig; that Lum Holt, another settler, who has also come into Miles City, had been warned by an Indian boy to go, as messengers had been sent to Standing Rock agency to get help from the Sioux; that they were going to take Agent Upshaw's scalp sure, and would take the soldiers' scalps, too.

No Transportation for Troops.

Col. Swaine said there were two troops of cavalry at the agency, and three of a infantry and one of cavalry on the way to the threatened settlement, but owing to the lack of transportation facilities, he could not place troops at all points desired by the committee. During the conference it developed that sixty-five young bucks, with forty-eight guns, were hiding near the Roman Catholic mission, fourteen miles from the agency, and that Maj. Carroll, in charge of the troops at the agency, knew nothing of it. Col. Swaine at the suggestion of Col. Curtis sent orders to have these bucks disarmed. The situation is extremely perilous for settlers.

Identified as an Old Forger.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Sun prints a long story to the effect that Edgar Gray, president of the United States Land and Investment company, which has been trying to do business in Wall street, has been identified as William E. Gray, a noted forger twenty years ago. Gray has left for parts unknown.

Dr. Charles Butler, of New York, has given to the University of New York $100,000, putting the institution on a firm financial footing. He has also given a like amount to the Union Theological seminary.

WILL LIVE TO RUE HIS MERCY.

A Fond Old Man's Forgiveness of His Faithless Wife.

CORTLAND, N. Y., June 13.—One day last week there came here by train from Binghamton William C. Chanler, of Jackson township, Pa., an old man with hair and beard as white as snow, but still quite vigorous in mind and body. He applied to Deputy Sheriff E. J. Colgrove for help in hunting his runaway wife. He was in his 70th year. His wife was a good many years younger than he, and was a buxom and good-looking woman. She had run away with one of his hired men, a young fellow about 30 years old, named Charles E. Lewis, and he had reason to believe that the fugitives were living together here.

The Woman Stuck to Her Par amour.

The pair were located yesterday in rooms here, where they had set up housekeeping. Lewis was arrested, and arraigned before the police justice on a charge of grand larceny in carrying away the old man's household effects. The woman stuck to her husband, and for a time scornfully refused to have anything to say to her husband. The old man was fond of his good-looking young wife, and was ready to forgive and forget her escapade if she would only go back home with him. She obstinately refused to listen to his pleadings until she found that that was the only way she could save Lewis from prison.

Loving But Mighty Foolish.

Then she relented, and made up with her fond spouse. The terms she exacted were that the husband should deed her one of his farms, and also convey to her the big stock of applejack on hand at his distillery. Finally, that he should let up on his faithless hired man. The doting husband joyfully acceded to these conditions, and set out for home with his recovered spouse as blithe as a bridegroom. No one appeared to prosecute the hired man, whose blameworthy conduct had caused such trouble in his employer's household, and the police justice let him go.

THE COWLES SHOOTING CASE.

Trying to Hold Hale for Assault—The Wounded Man's Deposition.

MONTREAL, June 13.—Judge Desnoyers devoted yesterday morning to considering whether or not he should discharge from custody C. C. Hale, who is under arrest for the shooting of Eugene Cowles, of Cleveland. Cowles made a statement which practically clears Hale, but the judge refused to discharge Hale until another attempt can be made to hold him on a charge of assault. In his deposition Cowles says:

I stated to Hale and my wife several times that any one interfering to deprive me of my child would be shot by me if I did not get protection of the court in time. The threats I made were against any one who would try to deprive me of my child illegally.

Pleads Momentary Insanity for Hale.

I acted all through upon legal advice from Cleveland and Toronto, and never overstepped the bounds of the law. I cannot charge, and I do not accuse, my brother-in-law with shooting me with intent to do me harm. I believe he was momentarily out of his mind, having been wrought up to that state by witnessing the sufferings of my wife, and I believe that both my wife and Mr. Hale are incapable of doing an evil act, more especially of doing me any harm.

I was sitting with my back to the driver.

I reached forward to open the carriage door. As I had my hand on the door I saw a curiosity shop and made some remark about it, and turning to my wife said: "There is a curiosity shop." These were my last words before I heard the report. This report was that of a pistol. I got a deluge of blood immediately and saw that I was shot below the right ear. I heard my wife scream and she sprang or fell through the doorway to the sidewalk. As soon as my wife sprang by me I saw a revolver in my brother-in-law's hand, and I grabbed it. I lost a considerable quantity of blood, but I did not see my brother-in-law pulling the trigger, but I have no doubt that it was him who shot me.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 13.—The committee of the Maryland legislature, appointed to investigate State Treasurer Archer's defalcation, has completed its report. It gives the total amount of his defalcation as $132,401.25, the disposition of all of which, except about $10,000 in bonds, has been accounted for. No evidence was received that Mr. Archer gambled. The committee says the funds were used by him to pay off personal indebtedness.

Shot a Horse Thief.

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—A special from Wichita, Kan., to The Post-Dispatch says: John King, a farmer living six miles west of here, discovered a thief stealing a horse from his barn. King secured a shot gun and fired, killing the horse. He fired again, seriously wounding the thief. It is thought the robber is a well-known horse thief named Bob Kaiser, who has been operating extensively throughout Kansas.

Scaly Skin Diseases

Psoriasis 5 years, covering face, head and entire body with white scabs. Skin red, itchy and bleeding. Hair all gone. Spent hundreds of dollars. Pronounced incurable. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

Cured by Cuticura

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my legs, head, and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders, and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT I could see a change, and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it without any scars. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of others who have received great benefit from their use.

A CRAZY TERROR.

Alarming Freaks of a St. Louis Madman.

ARMED WITH A BIG BOWIE KNIFE,

He Speedily Depopulates Two Houses and Reigns Supreme in the Neighborhood—A Scared Servant Girl's Mad Flight—His Visit to Mrs. Weshide—A Wild Ride Through the Streets—Much Panic, But No One Hurt.

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—The police arrested a man yesterday who had been creating an uproar of excitement and reign of terror in the west end. His antics—for he is undoubtedly crazy—surpass anything that has been on record for some time. He first made himself known about 7 o'clock Wednesday night. He was driving in an open buggy attached to a sorrel horse. He first stopped at 4023 Eager road. Getting out of the rig he pulled from his boot an immense bowie-knife and sallied up to the front door and rang the bell.

Created a General Panic.
The servant, a young girl, answered the call. When she saw the wild-looking man flourishing the bowie knife she gave an awful scream of terror, leaped from the doorstep, cleared the fence at another bound, and sprang up the street. The crazy man, not at all dismayed, entered. The family was at dinner, and the crazy man sat down to the table and ordered a pound of flesh right next to the heart of a beast. The entire family fled, screaming, out of the back door, and the crazy man, after sampling the food, returned to his buggy and drove off.

Wanted to Act as Hair Trimmer.
He next called to pass the compliments of the day with Mrs. Weshide, who lives next door. Mrs. Weshide herself came to the door. The lunatic was calmly trimming his nails with the knife. He very playfully offered to demonstrate its sharpness by trimming the forelock of Mrs. Weshide's brow. He then told the lady that money was trash, but he must have it or he would kill every one in the house. It was not thirty seconds before he was lord of the house. The family and servants all sought refuge in the barn and barricaded the door.

The Whole Neighborhood Terrified.
By this time the wildest panic and confusion was caused in the neighborhood by the tales of the doings of the desperate man. A hundred terrified faces peeped out of windows and over fences as the maniac again got into his buggy. With a wild whoop of maniacal glee, he lashed his horse to a terrific speed, and drove off. Up one street and down another he drove, till his horse was nearly dead from exhaustion.

Corralled by a Policeman.
Finally he drove into a yard at Chouteau avenue and Manchester road, where he was captured by Officer Harrington. He was identified as Nicholas Hurst, aged 44, a man who was a "trusty" in the insane asylum, and escaped some days ago.

HIS CLAIM WAS REJECTED.

A Suit Over the Johnstown Flood Decided for the Company.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 13.—Mrs. F. S. Tarbell and child were passengers on the ill-fated day express of the Pennsylvania railroad, and lost their lives in the Johnstown disaster. Mr. Tarbell brought suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad company for $50,000 damages, claiming that the loss of the train was due to the negligence of the company officials in not having it run to a place of safety. The case has occupied nearly two weeks, and was concluded yesterday, the jury finding a verdict in favor of the company. It is probable that it will be taken to the supreme court.

National Temperance Convention.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The national temperance convention was well attended yesterday. The question should: "Should there be a political party whose dominant idea is the prohibition of the liquor traffic?" led to an animated discussion. The majority of the speakers favored a prohibition party as the only means of securing the prohibition of the liquor business, while the minority thought the temperance cause could be more rapidly advanced by working through the older parties. The convention closed last night. One thousand dollars was subscribed for the temperance cause.

THE RECORD IN THE BRAIN.

Extraordinary Instances of Word Blindness and Word Deafness.

All persons are consciously and unconsciously molding in their brain cells records innumerable. Things that we reckon not of leave their impress there; stamp comes upon stamp like the various writings in an old palimpsest, in which the looser writings seem entirely obliterated until they are revealed by the processes of the antiquarian. So when the vision of the higher centers is sharpest it can see through the maze, and it may in a moment decipher the records of a lifetime; or when the restraining influence of the higher centers has been removed during delirious unconsciousness, muttered words, broken sentences, or clearly spoken periods, and mayhap even acts, give to bystanders glimpses of the passing visions.

When we are trying to recollect a thing, we are simply searching here and there among the records in the brain to see if by chance we can find the leaf that we want to read. What an index catalogue is to the searcher in a library, that to the searcher of brain records are the laws of association; and precisely as a purely alphabetical or arbitrary catalogue may assist the student, so may an artificial system of mnemonics assist the brain deliver. The separateness of memory and consciousness is also illustrated by some of the extraordinary phenomena which are connected with the so-called local memories.

Among the local or isolated memories the most distinct and sharply cut is the memory for words. The forms of aphasia known as word blindness and word deafness are very strange. The sufferer from word blindness can write and will understand what is said to him; he will talk to you and perhaps talk you to death; but hand him a book, a newspaper, or even the letter he himself has written, and he cannot read a word.

Thus an active man of business having written a letter, giving directions for an important matter, attempted to read it in order to see if it was correct, but was astounded to find that he could not make out a single word; he had been suddenly stricken with word blindness. The sounds of the words and the words themselves had remained to him, but the recollection of the written forms of the words was gone.

In a case of word deafness the person can talk and can write, but, although his hearing is perfect, he cannot recognize the spoken words. The sound of the voice is plain to his sense, but conveys no thought to him.—Dr. H. C. Wood in Century.

He Didn't Delay.

The ease with which foreigners coming to this country mix with our population and don the manners of the natives in hustling for a livelihood was forcibly illustrated on the arrival of the English steamer Parisian at Portland. Among the Parisian passengers was an Italian seissors grinder, who stood near the gangway with his machine on his back, and who was one of the first to set foot on the wharf. If he had any "first impressions" of America, he did not make note of them as did Max O'Rell and other distinguished foreigners. He had no baggage to look after, other than his apparatus for putting an edge on things, and being free from care he was naturally lighthearted and gay. He didn't bother his head about looking up a boarding house, but at once oiled up his machine, placed his tools in readiness for use, and within thirty minutes after getting on shore he was seen going up India street ringing his bell for business. Welcome, welcome, blithe grinder, to the ranks of our useful citizens!—Leviston Journal.

Cabby Found Asleep.

A somnolent cabman was enjoying a comfortable nap on his box, in the Rue de Metz when an enterprising person came along, cut the reins, unharnessed the steed of the sleeping Jehu, mounted the animal and tried to gallop it up the Faubourg Saint Martin. The nag, however, was almost as sleepy as its master, and refused to proceed at a pace fast enough to enable the street brigand to get away.

The cabman having been aroused from his slumbers by a good Samaritan who had observed the thief, rubbed his eyes and tried to ornament his features with a feeble smile, which was accompanied by a muttered malediction. At length, deeming energy imperatively necessary, cabby seized his whip and proceeded briskly after the disappearing annexer of nags, who was ultimately conducted to a police station, where he treated the adventure as a pure joke. This species of horse play was, however, neither relished by the victimized cabman nor by the police, who sent the thief to the lock up.—London Telegraph.

Couldn't Help It.

When the editor of this paper was a reporter, he was once sent to see a German about something or other. To the German he said: "Sir, I am a reporter of The Sun."

"Vell," said the honest Teuton, "you can't help dot. Vot you want?" "Chatter."

An English electrician has invented a material that he calls "alterion," for the prevention of corrosion in boilers. The interior of the boiler is coated with the material and from time to time electrical currents are sent through it.

I stood on the bridge at midnight,
 As drunk as a son-of-a-gun,
 Two moons rose over the city,
 Where there ought to have been but one

I could see their bright reflections in the water under me,
 And I experienced a feeling of wonder and great curiosity.

If only one had been there, I would not have been in doubt,
 But what two moons were doing I could not well make out.

The tide was slowly ebbing,
 I could hear the waters roll.
 As I stood in the water's shadows
 As to hide from the night patrol.

How often, Oh! how often,
 In the days of old lang syne,
 I have tried to cross at midnight,
 And got lost every time.

But to-night I was hot and restless,
 And my mind was full of care,
 And the work that lay before me
 Was more than I could bear.

I had no latch key with me,
 And locked would be the door,
 And would have to sit in the doorway,
 As I had done before.

I'd have to sit in the doorway
 In agony and in fear,
 Till a voice said from the window,
 "Did the lodge hold late, my dear?"

So to-night I stood there dreaming,
 And watched the restless tide,
 Till a cop came with his wagon,
 And invited me to ride.

The Rt. Hon. Arthur Balfour, the Secretary for Ireland in the British Cabinet, has just cabled to the editor of the North American Review, that he has mailed a reply to Mr. Parnell's strictures in the current number of the Review on his Land Bill. Mr. Balfour's Reply will appear in the July number of the North American Review.

"Funny!" Well, I should say so! Look at the one in short lace skirt to the knees, rubber boots, bare arms, an immense muff, straw hat, and—a beard!

'What is it?' Why, that is 'A Modern Columbus' in the burlesque of that name given by a dramatic club of the celebrated Seventh Regiment of New York, and these illustrations and the account of it are, as you see, in Demorest's Family Magazine for July, which has just arrived.

The pictures of the six footers of the Seventh arrayed in feminine toggeery are about the funniest that have appeared in any magazine for a long time. This number also contains a beautifully illustrated article on the interior of Vice-President Morton's house, which is full of suggestions for modern house-furnishing.

The article "Stanley's Rescue of Emin," profusely illustrated, is also of great interest at this time; and "The House-Boat in American Waters" will give a hint to many who are wondering how to spend the summer. In fact the whole Magazine, from the handsome Water-color in the front to the "Spice Box" in the back, is artistically and handsomely executed. It is wonderful how Demorest's Family Magazine has come to the front in the past few years, and now stands in the forward rank of the Great Magazines.

Indeed there is no other Magazine published that so acceptably caters to every member of the family. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York.

The leading question now is: "Are you provided with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as a safe-guard against an attack of bowel complaint during the summer months?" No family can afford to risk being without this invaluable medicine during the hot weather. It is almost certain to be needed, and is a friend indeed when required, as it never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by H. E. Donaldson.

H. E. Donaldson, the druggist, wishes to remind his patrons that it is a dangerous policy to wait until taken sick before buying a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Every family should be provided with some reliable remedy for bowel complaints, ready for immediate use, whenever required, during the summer months, and this remedy is unquestionably far superior to any other. It can always be depended upon, and is pleasant and safe to take. It is put up in 25 and 50 cent bottles.

W. W. Moore, of the Grand Opera House, Des Moines, is an early settler in that part of Iowa, and has had a great deal of experience in his time. He says: "At various times I have had acute attacks of bilious colic and violent pains in the stomach, and found nothing that gave more relief like Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Every person," he says, "should have a bottle." For sale by H. E. Donaldson.

My offer of $100 has not been taken, nor would $200. The fact is, there is no pump made that can compete with the COMBINED AIR and CISTERN PUMP, for purifying water when used in combination with my well, for cisterns, it will draw water from the well or cistern, thus saving an extra pump. The well is improved, the water passes down below the bottom of the cistern through five feet of gravel and sand before entering the well, then upwards in the well through gravel, sand and charcoal, properly prepared and packed. This will keep the water cool, remove all live animal matter, and the well will not require to be re-packed. How different from this is an ordinary well where the earth is the filter; there may be some dead reptile at the bottom of the well, or the water may contain poison. If water passing through the earth will become hard, adulterated with lime, why will it not hold filth poisonous matter in solution. The well will be furnished at a reasonable price. Price of cistern pump at shop, $4.00. There should be an air pump in every cistern where there is a chain or suction pump. It will keep the water good. Price of air pump $1.00.

"I now make a specialty of putting in cisterns in connection with my pumps and wells. All work will be fully warranted. Get my prices before giving your orders. My Air and Cistern Pumps do what no other pump can do, take the foul odor out of cistern water in five minutes, and will do the work of two pumps, draw the water out of the well or cistern. When the pumps are put up, arrangements are made to put the well in afterwards. I know you will have it when once you know its merits. If you still insist on having the chain pump I can furnish them to you for $1.50 to $2.00, as I can trade for them. Now is the time to use the Air Pump, before your cistern water gets foul. Price $1.00. E. EMMERT, Dixon, Ill. DIXON, ILL., MAY 14, 1890.

We are using Emmert's Combined Air and Cistern pump, like it, and think it the true principle for purifying cistern water. Mrs. J. R. CARPENTER, DIXON, APRIL 29, 1890.

We are using one of Mr. Emmert's Air Pumps in our cistern. It removes all foul odors from the water and makes it clear. It seems almost like a miracle. Mrs. GEORGE M. DELAND, DIXON, MAY 15, 1890.

I have one of E. Emmert's wells in my cistern; it has been there seven years and has not been re-packed. It furnishes pure water. I want no better. I consider it of great value to the public. Wm. H. MAIDEN, MISS ADA BOSSEMEYER, DIXON, MAY 20, 1890.

I have one of Emmert's Combined Air and Cistern Pumps in my cistern; it is all he claims for it. A. F. ROBINSON. NORTH DIXON, MAY 21, 1890.

I have one of Emmert's Air Pumps, and in five minutes the water became perfectly sweet. I could not have spent a dollar to better advantage. Mrs. E. F. ROGERS, DIXON, MAY 23, 1890.

If you want good water get one of Emmert's Cistern Wells. I have had one four years. HARVEY CAMP, DIXON, ILL., JUNE 4, 1890.

I have one of Emmert's Air Pumps; would not take five dollars for it if I could not get another. Makes the water clear and sweet. C. W. DEY.
